I'm always conscious of the time of year when I embark on one of these monthly letters. September marks the beginning of the academic year: a significant time for young people, their carers and those who work in or with education – including clergy and our Open the Book team. Most of us will be aware of children in uniform and the increase in traffic at the beginning and end of the school day. Because we are rural, most of us will also be conscious of the changing agricultural scene: harvest gold is giving way to turned soil, ready for autumn sowing. From next month comes mud, with the lifting and heaping of beet. There's a similar cycle for gardeners, including the crop of autumn shows. There may be other outside tasks to complete ere the winter storms begin. The football season started last month; and many organisations embark on a new programme after a summer break, with plans to be made for the months leading up to Christmas. But arranging September meetings can be a challenge, as many of the active retired people on whom churches and voluntary groups depend take a holiday now the schools have gone back! Despite the promotion of 24/7 activity, 365 days a year, and its attempt to flatten out the rhythms of life, we are used to operating within a number of overlapping seasons. It's probably in our DNA, because we see nature doing the same: using the days of autumn to prepare for winter - migration, leaf drop, hibernation.

In his wisdom, Ecclesiastes knew that there is a time for everything under the sun: a time to be born and a time to die; a time to plant and a time to uproot. Yet there may be areas in our lives where we try to forget the progression of time and behave as if present conditions can and will continue for ever. We might do that in the face of aging; or to resist change in some cherished area of our life; or in failing to take action to reduce climate change. But are we burying our heads in the sand? Sand might provide a good metaphor. Where there are sand dunes on our coasts, management always appeared to me to be directed towards stabilisation: promoting the growth of marram; resisting erosion. But ecologically, a healthy dune system is a mobile one: many plants and animals depend on shifting sands. Soft, dynamic coastal features like saltmarsh may be better at absorbing the energy of the sea than hard engineering which attempts to keep things as they are – for the time being.

On the whole, the New Testament doesn't operate on the basis that things are going to stay as they are: that vision belongs to the hereafter. Instead there is a sense that things are about to change, initiated by Jesus' own preaching that the kingdom of heaven is near. Sometimes the crisis appears imminent: sometimes that's what we need to overcome our inertia and awaken us from sleep. In other perspectives there is a time of grace: we have been granted time to prepare, to make the necessary changes; but only limited time. As Charlotte Elliott put it in her hymn, we are only here for a season.

In the love of God,

Martin Greenland

Parish Notes

Sisters Elizabeth Pio and Heidi Marie will now be contributing to worship somewhere in the benefice each month, usually by providing a reflection. Heidi Marie has already received authorisation as a Worship Assistant; while Elizabeth Pio will be licensed as a Lay Worker on 16th

Harvest Thanksgiving will be celebrated at Acle and Wickhampton on 1st October: we welcome gifts for local foodbanks. Dates have also been set for Beighton (8th Oct); and Halvergate, Limpenhoe and Reedham (all on 15th Oct).

WICKHAMPTON NEWS

Teddy Bear Parachute & Zip-line: Sunday 13 August 2023

Due to extremely windy conditions on the day, it was decided that, unfortunately, parachuting would be just too dangerous for our brave bears and intrepid toys: a couple of trial jumps on the day had resulted in "Green Green Jelly Bean Bear" and a friend being blown into a tree, where they sat (quite comfortably) on a branch for 24 hours before we could rescue them! Never mind, the zip-line proved a brilliant back-up, and around 140 bears and toys whizzed down from the top of our 66ft tower!

Huge thanks go to Sue Burman for her incredible efforts in organising this fantastic event every year; to everyone who helped on the day, especially David and Peter on top of the tower; to David Clayton from BBC Radio Norfolk for introducing us to each bear and toy, and talking them safely to the ground; to all who donated some wonderful raffle prizes and, finally, to everybody who came to Wickhampton with their beloved bears, sloths, unicorns, Spidermen, turtles and crocodiles (among so many other species!) and helped raise over £1,100 towards repairs and maintenance to this very special church. Fantastic effort!

The Friends of Wickhampton Church

Cantley & District W.I.

Our next meeting will take place on Wednesday 20th September at 7.30pm in Cantley Village Hall. This will take the form of a DIY meeting. Although we did not have a meeting in August, we have been busy with visits to Ranworth, How Hill, and an afternoon tea in Great Yarmouth. For more information contact Barbara our secretary on 07789845050. New members always very welcome.

Reedham aim for ‘Mindful Towns and Villages Mental Health Status’ 7.

Back in March 2023, Reedham Parish Council were made aware of free Mental Health awareness training being rolled out across South Norfolk and Broadland Districts, as part of the Mindful Towns and Villages Project.

The project aims to provide support within the community and workplace, whilst raising awareness of mental health problems, and challenging the stigma that is associated with such issues.

The Councils are working with various partner organisations - The Norfolk and Suffolk Foundation Trust’s Wellbeing Service, Thriving Workplaces, and Evolve – to become more ‘Mindful Districts’.

Through the partnerships, free mental health education and awareness training is being provided to representatives from local businesses, and community groups, including Town and Parish Councils. Representatives who complete the training automatically become a Wellbeing Champion.

Wellbeing Champions are not mental health practitioners, but can have open conversations about mental health in the community, recognize mental health issues and signpost individuals to get appropriate support via the Councils’ Help Hub and partner organisations.

Reedham Parish Council aims to see our village become a Mindful Village through a network of champions. Achieving ‘status’ depends on having a sufficient number of champions for the population of the village, and as Reedham is deemed a small village (population 1,001 – 2500) – 4+ champions, at least, are required.

One of our Parish Councillors has already become a Wellbeing Champion, having completed Wellbeing Champion & Mental Health First Aid Training courses, and a second will be attending the next training session.

Courses are optional, and further training is also available via the partner organisations.

If you are interested in becoming a Wellbeing Champion in the village further information can be found on the S. Norfolk and Broadland website ‘Communities page’.

Reedham Belles (Reedham and District WI)

At our monthly meeting on 1st August, we were absorbed by a talk from Gavin Bickerton-Jones about Norfolk Wildlife through the Lens. Not only were the photos remarkable, but we were treated to an enormous amount of information about the local birds and mammals that Gavin so carefully chronicles. To celebrate Norfolk Day, we created a community herb garden at the doctor's surgery in Reedham. Thank you to the other community groups who contributed plants and expertise.

Our September meeting is our birthday party and Happy Birthday should sound nice because we have a booked Joan Hocking, a classically trained singer, to entertain us. No doubt, she will sing some other stuff as well!

Everyone is welcome to come along and sample a WI meeting and we can be contacted via the email details below.

Reedham Ringers

We continue to practice at St John the Baptist, Reedham every Monday @ 4pm. It being summer and tourist season we have enjoyed welcoming visiting ringers and some non-ringers to our practices. One of the wonderful things about ringing church bells is that wherever you are, if there is church with an active tower, then you are usually welcome to join in either on a Sunday or a practice night. If you hear the bells ringing, then it is worth checking out! If anyone has ringing visitors over the summer, please let them know that Reedham band are happy to extend a warm welcome. Even if they have not touched a rope in years, we would love to meet them and encourage a return to the community of ringers.

We will be at Acle church on Sep. 4th @ 4pm rather than Reedham, so come and see us there if you are interested in what we do.

40th Anniversary of the Norfolk Churches Trust Bike Ride and Walk – Saturday 9th September

We wonder if the pioneering people who first did the Bike Ride in 1983 would believe that it is still going strong in 2023 and that the event has raised over £4.2 million for churches in the county. The challenges facing our churches are still enormous and I hope you will celebrate this 40th anniversary year by making a huge effort to support a church of your choice and the Norfolk Churches Trust by taking part in this year's event.

We would love to hear from anybody who took part in that very first bike ride. All funds raised are split between the participants' nominated church and the Norfolk Churches Trust, however all proceeds go to help maintain our wonderful Norfolk Churches. As an added incentive to take part there is a bonus of £1,000 for the 'most improved church' of the year and the Lord Lieutenant's Certificate for the person who raises the most money. Not to mention the Wall of Fame for the competitive amongst you who want to visit the most churches on the day!

We love to see your photographs, the images of those taking part, the churches that are visited and the wonderful things that are inside them. We have three prizes of £50 to those we enjoy the most and they may end up being published in the EDP.

So please email us your stories and photos to info@norfolkchurchestrust.org.uk

So, whether you cycle, walk or drive, we hope you can help us make our 40th Anniversary event the best ever.
